NON-FICTION BOOKS

A vibrant, stylized illustration of a jungle scene. In the center, a young boy with orange hair and a light blue long-sleeved shirt, and a young girl with dark hair and a pink sleeveless top, are holding a large, unrolled yellow scroll. The scroll has the text 'Albatros Media' written on it in a dark blue, cursive font. The background is a lush jungle with various green plants, including large monstera leaves and pink star-shaped flowers. A blue parrot is perched on a branch to the left, and a toucan is visible in the upper right. A black monkey is seen climbing a tree on the right. In the foreground, there are small white mushrooms and a blue butterfly. Below the jungle scene, there is a cross-section of an underwater world. It features a large sea turtle swimming towards the left, surrounded by various colorful fish, including orange and white striped ones, blue ones, and black and white striped ones. The seabed is covered with red and yellow coral, green seaweed, and a red crab on a rock.

GUESS WHO IS HIDDEN HERE
Who Flies in the Sky?

Who does the curly tail belong to? And whose is the pointy one? Who stretches his sucker towards you, and who thrusts out her sticky tongue? Our world is full of animals, each different from the last. Learn about the most interesting creatures on land, in the water and in the air, and find out what makes them special and what their characteristics bring them. If you don't know who it is, simply tug on the drawbar and the animal will be revealed!

LIFE AT...

Life at the Castle

ILLUSTRATED BY David J. Plant

WRITTEN BY Ondřej Navrátil

Everyone knows that a castle has walls. But what is behind them? And how about the castle's high tower, beautiful chambers, and the tiny room known as the privy? Did you know that wind and water were used to turn a heavy millstone, saw wood, swing a giant hammer, and dry out a lake? You didn't? Well, if you'd like to find out how, the 'Life at...' series is here to show you past lives as they really were. The first two parts in the series recreate a medieval castle and the first modern water- and windmills. Highly readable and not overburdened with facts, their aim is to preserve historical accuracy despite significant simplification. Not only are the fun, contoured, cut-out illustrations guaranteed to hold the attention of any child, but that child is sure to go back to them again and again.

These beautifully illustrated board books develop the child's imagination. As they look at the pictures, children hear realistic sounds, simply by pressing a button. Would you like to teleport to the wood or a farm? No problem – you will hear the sounds of forest animals or a busy farm in a second. Kids can also spend a day with a little donkey on his way to the kindergarten or at a B-day party and understand how friendship is important for everyone. Do you prefer something more adventurous? Then listen carefully! The fire service is coming to fight the fire and ambulance is in a hurry to treat an injured cyclist!

WRITTEN BY Štěpánka Sekaninová

Have you ever bungled something up, kids? You didn't? Oh, don't be shy to admit it. There's nothing wrong about making the occasional mistake. Everyone makes some from time to time, even characters from fairy tales. That's doubtful, you say? Well, take a look at the fairy-tale world, turned upside down by the many tricks fictional characters tried and failed to pull off. Will you help these little scatterbrains clean up their mess? Confused colours, enchanted shapes, magical opposites, and tangled numbers. This sure is a case for skilful girls and boys!

SOLD: English, Italian

The Things Organized Neatly series offers its readers a combination of visually striking pages and non-fiction elements. Each spread is full of bright, modern graphic illustrations that encourage children to learn new words and thus name things connected to a specific place or an item (such as a washing machine, a caravan, a pirate ship, a pastry shop or a plate of alphabet soup). Thanks to their clear, yet bold layout, these books will entertain children for hours. They can try guessing what's hiding inside or enjoy the search-and-find aspect and try to find the individual items in the full-page illustration.

Having good manners might seem complicated. But all you need to do is understand why certain types of behaviour are fine while others aren't. These books show children how to act when out in the nature, downtown, or at the kindergarten. Their flap pages will teach the little readers how to be respectful to people and other living creatures, how to protect the nature, or stay safe downtown. They also answer the eternal question of "Why...?"

WRITTEN BY Petra Bartíková, Lenka Chytilová, Radka Píro, Magda Garguláková

What's that rustling at the top of a spreading oak? It's the sound of little birds hatching in the nest! But things are different at night. That's when mischievous animals rarely seen in daylight come out. Following on from earlier titles in the successful series Explore the Animal Kingdom – about life on a coral reef, in a tree stump and on a mountaintop – come two new titles to take us to secluded places of the animal kingdom. The openings and hollows of these specially shaped books allow the reader to wander – and to learn lots of interesting, surprising things along the way.

Books for children just starting school, showing them how many things that we see around us and use every day come into being. The young reader will find descriptions of how everyday items like chairs and glasses are made, plus how the internet, computer games, cars and electricity are created. The third part, which looks at art, explains to children how a film, a theatre performance and a concert by a symphony orchestra are put together. The latest sequel presents a comprehensive list of individual and team sports. The book will show the kids where various types of sport come from, give them an overview of the basic rules and teach them their storied history.

This series takes young readers to different parts of the world, where children show them their homes and how they celebrate holidays, their favourite games and their schools. Readers will learn a lot about life in typical kinds of homes, every-day activities or what people around the world. Why are particular holidays celebrated, what traditions are kept on those days, and what delicacies do people eat? How does the celebration of Christmas differ from country to country? And what about their lessons? Are they the same everywhere, or are there fundamental differences? And what do children play in their free time? Blind man's buff? Hide-and-seek? Thanks to this series, kids will see the world and learn about a wide range of cultures.

We Are Nature

BOOK PARAMETERS:

Size 190 x 235 mm, 44 pages,
hardbinding

ILLUSTRATED BY Hannah Li, Laura Deo,

Amelia Herbertson, Iris Deppe

WRITTEN BY Joli Hannah

The We Are Nature series ideally combines children's stories depicting the interconnection between man and nature. It sensitively uncovers important and less cheerful topics in a positive way. Although these are story fiction titles, children will find valuable factual information here. The books' aim is not to passively inform children but to force them to ask questions and look for answers in independent sources. During the development of the title, we came to realize that the opinions of experts are not uniform and may differ. This series is not a scientific publication. It does not present the facts dogmatically, but asks questions and allows the search for answers.

The Wonderful World of Insects

NEW

The world is losing animals in great numbers. Some species have left us for ever, others are so endangered as to be on the verge of extinction. The first two publications in the Large Encyclopedias of Animals narrative series are both memento and warning to humankind to think again about its treatment of nature. Exhaustive information from the pen of award-winning Czech writer and poet Radek Malý is complemented with impressive full-page illustrations by leading Czech illustrators Pavel Dvorský and Jiří Grbavčic. The third publication in the series introduces the reader to the wonderful world of insects, oft-unnoticed creatures without which there would be no life on our planet. It is written by leading Czech entomologist Jiří Kolibáč and illustrated by Pavel Dvorský and his wife Pavla Dvorská.

How to Control a Submarine

BOOK PARAMETERS:

Size 215 x 280 mm, 48 pages,
hardbinding

ILLUSTRATED BY Tomáš Tůma

WRITTEN BY Tomáš Tůma

SOLD: Simplified Chinese, Bulgarian

If a car is to go where the driver wants it to go, it needs to have a steering mechanism that makes the wheels turn in the right direction. Meanwhile, brakes can stop the car and an engine powers the wheels which are the entire reason why the car can even move in the first place. Every machine is different, though, and must be controlled a bit differently. We'll take a look at a few of the most interesting ones, and see what's inside. We'll see what propels them forward, and talk about the mechanisms that control them. You'll learn how to control a submarine, hot-air balloon, helicopter, a sailboat, and many other remarkable devices and machines—all thanks to demonstrative illustrations, easy-to-understand text, and simple flap pages. At the end of the book we'll take a look at what the city you live in needs in order to function.

The attacker takes the ball, rounds the defender and fires into the net. It's a goal! But where did the idea of a goal come from, and what is the origin of the ball? And why do we kick it rather than carry it in our hands? Because if we did it would no longer be football, but rugby, or maybe even American football... If these questions have ever occurred to you, or the fact that hockey was played in ancient Egypt is news to you, The Past and Present of People and Sport is right for you.

ORDINARY WORLD

Encyclopedia of Ordinary Living

SOLD: English, Simplified Chinese

They are everywhere we look – things we use every day, rooms in our homes we spend much of our time in. It never occurs to us to stop and consider how these things and rooms came to be, how they looked in their earliest days, and how they have transformed and developed over the centuries. We have created the Ordinary World series with all this in mind. Its titles aim to show the history of objects now so much part of our everyday lives that we pay little attention to them.

LOOK AROUND AND LEARN

Numbers, Numbers Everywhere

SOLD: Bulgarian, Simplified Chinese, English, Spanish, Catalan, Valencian

When you look around you at home, in the street or in a shop, you see a lot of different things - including plenty of numbers and shapes. But do you know what they tell us? You've encountered them since you were a child, you can recognise them, name them and, in the case of numbers, do a bit of maths, too. But do you know what all these numbers and shapes mean and what role they play in our everyday lives? They give out much more than you might think ... The Look Around and Learn series of books offers young readers a different take on the familiar first concepts - alongside simple theory, the books contain 14 categories, divided according to the contexts in which shapes or numbers are used, what they help us with or what they express. After all, they tell us something different when we are driving around town, playing board games or reading a signboard.

TEACHING AID:

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE WORLD OF NUMBERS FOR THE FIRST GRADE CHILDREN, TURNING MATH INTO AN INTERESTING AND ATTRACTIVE SUBJECT INSTEAD OF A SCARY AND BORING ONE.

ATTRACTIVE FORMAT:

A FULLY ILLUSTRATED TITLE THAT RESEMBLES MORE A PICTURE BOOK RATHER THAN A TEXT ONE. AND IT ALSO CONTAINS ACTIVITIES.

POWERFUL MOTIVATION:

SHOWS A REAL-LIFE USAGE OF NUMBERS AND SHAPES IN OUR EVERYDAY LIVES. THE READERS WILL FIND OUT THAT NUMBERS AND MATH ARE USED UNCONSCIOUSLY WITHOUT EVEN REALIZING IT.

WRITTEN BY Magda Garguláková

SOLD: Korean, Simplified Chinese, Vietnamese, English, French, Italian, German, Spanish, Catalan

The hand is so much part of our bodies that we barely notice its presence. We use it to carry a mug of tea to our mouth, stroke a beloved pet, and bang on the table, when we are angry and when we are not. Composed of wrist, palm and five clever fingers, the hand is a reliable partner we would struggle to be without. Have you ever wondered how the hand works? Or why some of us are left-handed and others right-handed? Or how the hand of a sculptor differs from that of a pianist or a bricklayer? Did you know that we can use our hands to talk with, by communicating thoughts where words can't reach? We may think of the hand as ordinary, but it is truly remarkable... We guarantee that once you have read this book, you will think of your hands in a whole new way.

What If All Glaciers Melted?

If you're one of those inquisitive people who have lots and lots of probing questions yet are never able to find a decent answer, then these books are just the thing for you. The What if...? series is full of unusual questions, with many different answers. After all, there is no single answer to such an apparently easy question as "What if the Sun went out?". Our questions deal not only with stars, but also with other burning topics, for example "What if all the glaciers melted?" or "What if we felled every forest?" So if you care about the world around you, don't hesitate and open the books from our series to learn What if...?

Can you distinguish an ordinary rock from a meteorite – a rock of cosmic origin? If the answer is no, it doesn't matter: on the subject of meteorites, there is nothing this book can't tell you. You will learn how they are formed, what happens when they fly through space, and about the dizzying speeds they reach before they land on Earth. Read about famous meteorite falls – some amusing, some agents of great damage. Last but not least, learn to identify a meteorite. If you think all meteorites are the same, think again. A single meteorite fragment can tell us about the age of our planet and the composition of others. So come and join us on our great meteorite adventure! You won't regret it, that's for sure.

FAIRYTALE ENCYCLOPEDIA

Learning about Crafts with Puss in Boots

SOLD: Simplified Chinese, Korean

Fairy tales are packed with weird and wonderful characters, fascinating places and situations we can learn by. Although fairy-tale heroes always find their happy ending, the path that leads there is filled with dangers and obstacles. No wonder, then, that as we travel that path with them, we pay no attention to certain details. We have no notion of the trees in an enchanted forest, the material of the high tower where the bewitched princess waits for her prince, or whether the Golden Fish lives in saltwater or freshwater. If these matters and others like them bother you, too, join us on an expedition through the pages of this Encyclopaedia of Fairy Tales, where reason always triumphs over folly and injustice.

Who am I? Where did I come from? What am I doing here? Questions all of us probably ask at some point. This book doesn't answer these very questions, but it does answer similar ones. I imagine you shaking your head in confusion, telling yourself that I'm just trying to fill the space. But shaking your head is a sign that you are a vertebrate. And vertebrates are what this book is about. That's right – all the vertebrates in this book are relatives of yours and mine. So now you get my point. And if you don't, this book will explain it all to you. And now I'm out of space. So open the book and read on!

They are able to construct majestic buildings that provide shelter for many families, they can communicate with their companions and do all kinds of different jobs. Do you know who we're talking about? If you thought it was humans, you are mistaken. No, we were thinking about termites! Humans have much more in common with other creatures than it might seem at first glance. And that's exactly what this book is about. Enter a world where we shine a light on the similarities between ourselves and other living beings. Like us, many animals learn and can use tools. They experience emotions, have friends and show their love for one another. Open your mind and learn to treat the living creatures around you with the respect and reverence they deserve. We can learn a lot from them in many ways!

Language of Plants - Understand How Plants Communicate

ILLUSTRATED BY Darya Beklemesheva

WRITTEN BY Helena Haraštová

What if plants have superpowers we have overlooked? Could it be that plants rule the world? When you look at plants, you probably say to yourself: Very nice, but a bit boring. Plants don't walk or talk, and they let themselves be pulled up and cut down. But is that all there is to them? Recent scientific findings have shaken our traditional view of plants. Now we know that plants not only take an interest in the world around them, but they react to it too. Plus, they communicate in ways we humans can only dream of... Explore with us the depths of the plant soul, and learn how plants converse, help one another, fight together, what they remember, and how plant mail works. Afterwards, you will always treat plants with the respect and admiration they deserve!

EVENTS IN PICTURES

Unforgettable Sport Events

Some events in a person's life, and in society as a whole, have a profound effect on the course of human history. If certain events had not occurred, today's world might be a very different place. Other events are strangely botched, as if predestined for everlasting oblivion. The Events in Pictures series presents images from recent and distant history – from the world of politics, fights and battles, natural catastrophes, plus some fascinating moments in sport.
