Little Red Riding Hood

Once upon a time there was a girl called Little Red Riding Hood, because that was what she always wore. One day, her mother said: "It's Grandma's birthday, Little Red. I've put some goodies in a basket for her. Why don't you take them to her and wish her a happy birthday? But be careful to stay on the path and not go out of your way – many dangers lurk in the woods. When you reach the cottage, knock on the door three times." On the edge of the woods Little Red met a big animal she didn't recognize – a cunning, wicked wolf! He greeted Little Red and asked where she was going.

To my grandmother's, to wish her a happy birthday. When I reach the cottage, I'm to knock on the door three times and Grandma will open it." On hearing this, the wolf scampered off through the woods. He went to the door of the cottage and knocked on it three times. "Who's there?" called Grandma. "It's me, Little Red Riding Hood," replied the wolf. "Turn the handle and come in," called Grandma. The wolf bounded into the room and gobbled up poor Grandma. Then he got into the bed, put on Grandma's nightcap and spectacles and waited for Little Red Riding Hood to arrive.
