What Goes on in the Gym and Changing Room

somersault

Doing somersaults on a mat is child's play. Just lower your head and roll over with your whole body.

Proper exercise includes a little running, too - sometimes timed, sometimes not.

running

gym teacher

On your marks, get set, go! The teacher has pressed the stopwatch. Who will cross the line first?

The teacher can always give you a hand.

jumping

If you take a good run-up and catch it right, the horse is no obstacle and you'll fly over it easily.

lockers

Every pupil needs somewhere to keep clothes - and drinking bottles. It's important to keep to a drinking regimen.

getting changed

The changing room is full of sweaters, coats, jackets and other clothing. Things mustn't get mixed up.

The caretaker is looking at his watch and sending children into classrooms. They mustn't be late!

caretaker

Once the children are dressed, all they need to do is put on their shoes and tie the laces. Back to the classroom - hooray!

The caretaker is able to repair anything that goes wrong in classrooms, corridors and the gym.

cleaner

Things must be kept clean and tidy - in the classrooms and the changing room. The cleaner makes sure that they are.

Everyday Life at School

Written by Štěpánka Sekaninová
Illustrated by Kateřina Hikadová

What is an ordinary day at school like? Young chemists perform experiments. Outside in the garden, children rake up leaves, and their teacher shows them how to set a plant in the ground. Things are really lively in the gym - while half of the young athletes warm up, the others are already vaulting the horse. By telling the story of an ordinary day at school, these pictures stimulate the young reader's imagination and help them develop their vocabulary.
