TEACHING EDDIE TO FLY

Albatros

This is Ernest.
Ernest is a bear.

This is Eddie.
Eddie is a bird ...

... but he doesn't ever fly.

He goes everywhere on foot.

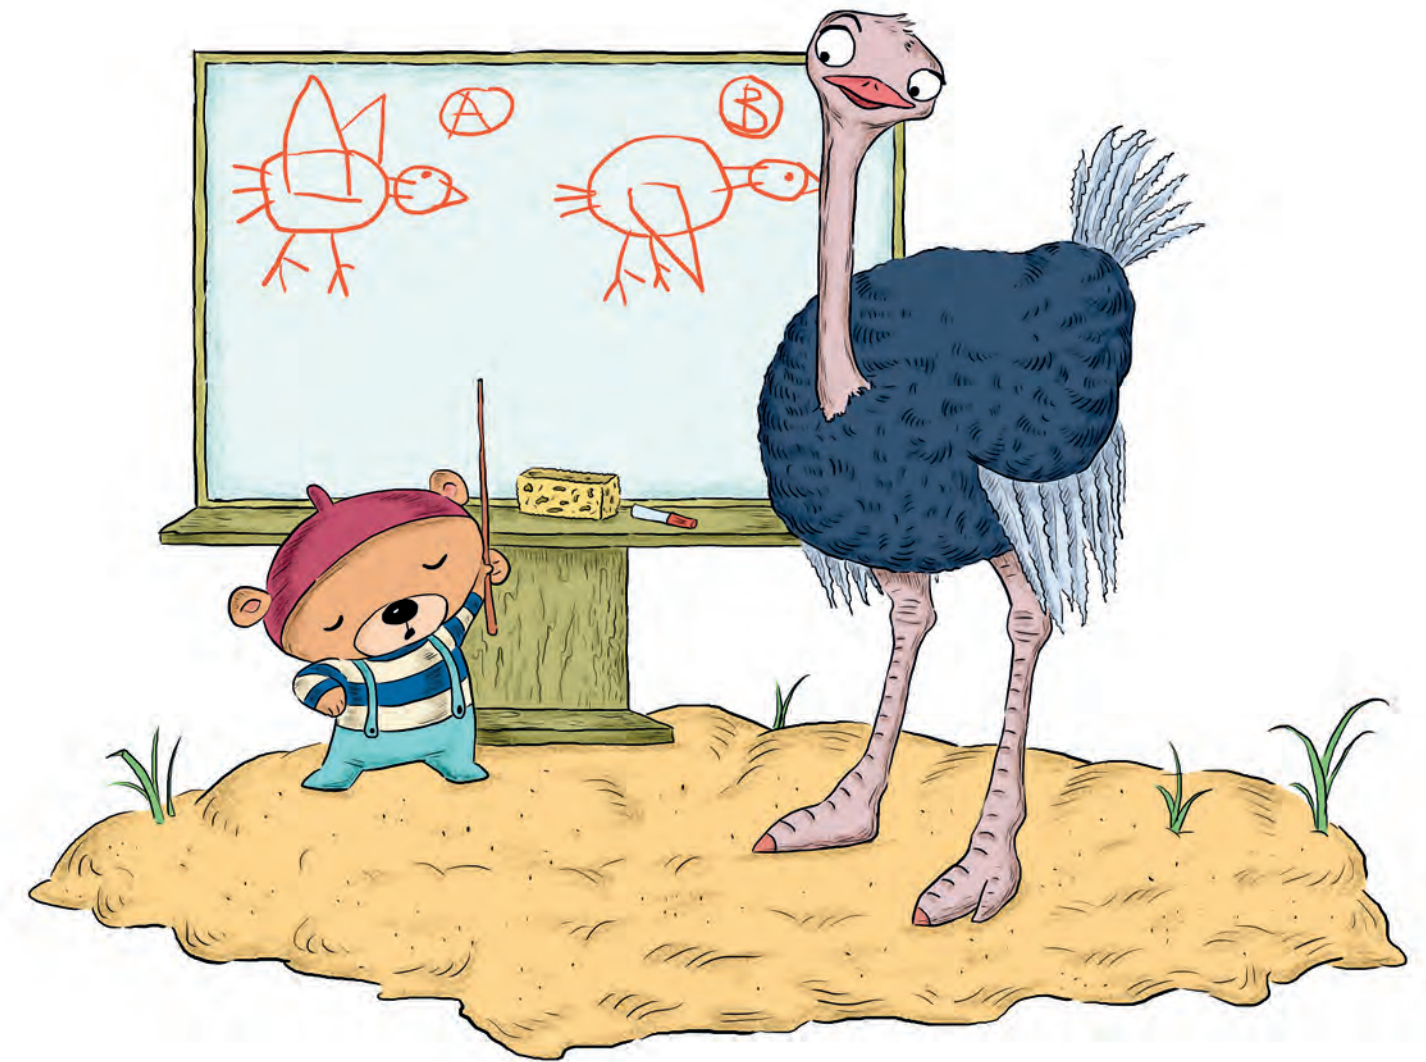

"Why don't you fly?" Ernest asks his friend.
"Because nobody has taught me how," replies Eddie.

"I'll teach you, then," says Ernest.

They begin with a lesson on the basics of flying.

Ernest loves giving lectures.

But for Eddie this is no fun at all.

"Let's go and try it out," suggests Ernest.

Eddie is very afraid of heights.

"Don't worry," says Ernest.
"With me teaching you how to fly, you'll be fine."

"First of all, you need to spread your wings," explains Ernest.

"Then you move them up ...

... and down ...

... then you do it all again, but quickly," says Ernest.

But Eddie doesn't take off.
Ernest checks Eddie's wings,
to see what's up with them ...

... and whether he's flapping them properly.

But he doesn't find anything wrong.
Eddie still can't fly.

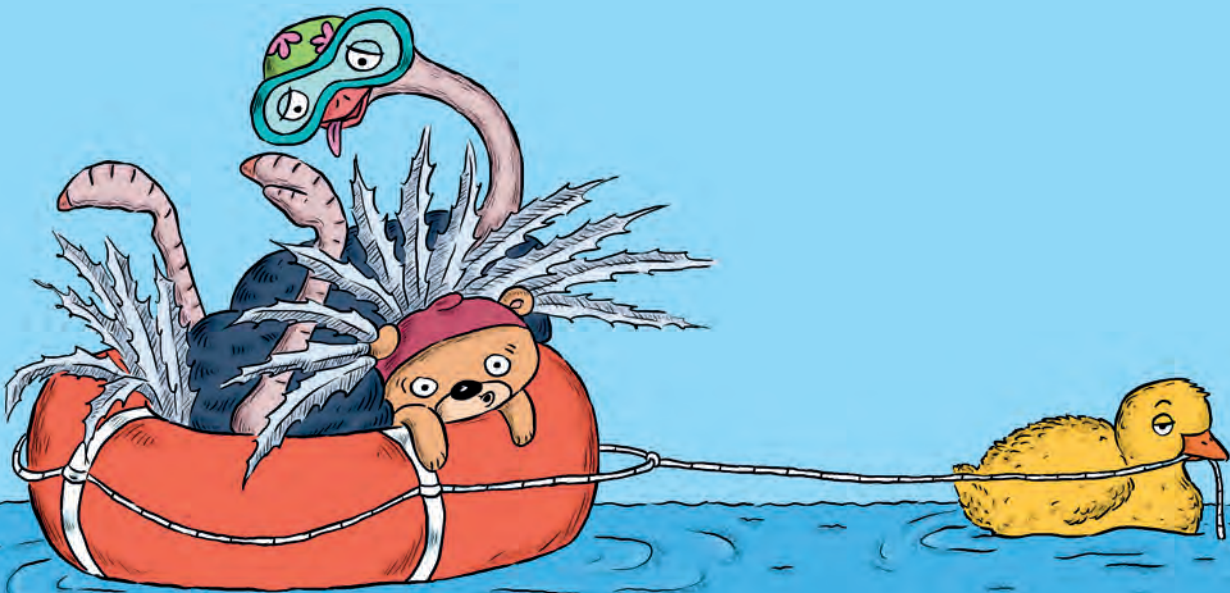

They try different ways of teaching Eddie to fly.
Eddie enjoys some of them ...

... but not others.

Ernest the bear has a new friend called Eddie.
Eddie is a bird, but he doesn't ever fly. He goes everywhere on foot. "Why don't you fly?"
Ernest asks his friend. "Because nobody has taught me how," replies Eddie. So Ernest the bear decides to teach Eddie how to fly. Will he be able to do it?
