ANIMALS AND THE SPORTS DAY

After the merry pram ride, Cat gave up competing in favour of serving as a referee and overseeing a volleyball match. Two strong teams took part – Pigs against Bears. The balloon was flying over the net like mad, here and there, here and there, as quick as lightning. Both teams did their best, but Pigs proved to be the better players in the end. “Hurray!” Dog shouted, seated comfortably among spectators. “You’ve won!”

To celebrate the end of the animal sports day, a magnificent feast with fireworks, costumes and masks was held nearby the lagoon. Dog took up the job of a gondolier, singing loudly and rowing the boat so wildly that he made it rock. "Be careful," Bunny cried out, "or you'll dump us all out! We'd like to hold at least one more competition sometime in the future!" And what about you? Are you looking forward to the next time the animals will compete with one another?

Our animal buddies have a great event lying ahead of them – they're holding a sports day. Cat, Dog, Bunny, and all the others will have much fun with thrilling competitions, hilarious disciplines, and a wonderful masquerade to will top it all off. Let's take a look at how our heroes will fare in this interactive book by Vojtěch Kubašta, a famous Czech artist whose books have been an essential part of growing up for many generations.
