OUR CITY

11/A

There are many different types of homes in a city - be them old, new, big or small. Cities are constantly growing, and people need more places to live. New houses are springing up in the outskirts like mushrooms. They are far away from the centre, therefore residents can find everything they need in there, from shops and restaurants to schools and kindergartens. Living on the edge of the city is usually much quieter and cheaper than in the centre.

A beautiful sunny day is simply made for a walk. The siblings Leonard and Lime have a very important task: to walk their fidgety dog Kurt in the park, where he can romp around. But it seems like Leonard is doing most of the frolicking. He's jumping around and his younger sister is cheering and applauding him. They didn't even notice an elegant female dog walking past them. But Kurt certainly did. It was love at first woof. He was simply smitten and decided he must conquer this lady's heart... But where did he disappear to? A city is a hive of activity, big and noisy and full of nooks. Search the city and don't forget to peep under each flap. You need to find Kurt!

The city may be teeming with life, but there is a whole other busy world right under your feet! There could be trains, underground utility tunnels that can carry all sorts of cables, an interconnected system of sewers, but also some hidden treasures! Isn't that fascinating?

Lime, wouldn't I be a great trapeze artist?

Stop it, Leonard! Where's Kurt? He must have slipped the leash! Oh boy, hurry up, we need to find him!

FUN CITY

City hall

This is where the mayor works. He takes care of the city and its people. The mayor together with the city council look after the city's goals, plans and finances. In city halls, many happy events take place, such as weddings. Congratulations to the newlyweds!

Museums are places of great importance and they are very interesting, too! People keep and exhibit collections of natural and historic items in them, as well as art. This way, they are preserved for people and everybody can see them. Our favourite exhibitions are about animals, prehistory and dinosaurs!
