

Etiquette for Little Rascals

Text by Štěpánka Sekaninová — Illustrations by Jakub Cenkl

Can you behave well? What kind of question is it? Ok, once again. Can you act in a polite manner? Could your parents and other people be proud of you? Really? Let's have a look. Open the book and try to find out what's right and what's wrong. Moreover, you can play with funny illustrations, which can be changed either into correct or incorrect situations. It is an entertaining and funny book full of pictures and tips which will teach you how to behave well. You can't believe it, can you?

Try and you will see.

read and learn

changing pictures

pull the handle

Štěpánka Sekaninová
Jakub Cenk

Etiquette for Little Rascals

Can You Behave?

B4U PUBLISHING

 b4u publishing
www.albatrosmedia.eu

ISBN + EAN

© Designed by B4U Publishing,
member of Albatros Media Group, 2020.
Author: Štěpánka Sekaninová
Illustrator: Jakub Cenk

WARNING
Choking hazard Not suitable for children under 36 months

Combed or uncombed?

Washed or unwashed?
Cleanliness is crucial

Your teeth will never be healthy and white if you don't clean them every morning and every evening. Toothbrush and toothpaste are good friends to us all.

Good health relies heavily on soap and water. Would you leave the toilet without washing your hands? Would you come indoors and not go straight to the washbasin? Of course you wouldn't!

Will a single pair of socks last a whole week? Of course they won't! We must change our socks every day.

Wearing your hair in the style of a bird's nest isn't good for it. We should comb or brush our hair well and regularly.

How good it is to walk out in clean shoes! Not only are we proud of our shoes, the shoes themselves are happy. Dirty shoes just don't feel right.

Combed or uncombed?

Washed or unwashed?
Cleanliness is crucial

Your teeth will never be healthy and white if you don't clean them every morning and every evening. Toothbrush and toothpaste are good friends to us all.

Good health relies heavily on soap and water. Would you leave the toilet without washing your hands? Would you come indoors and not go straight to the washbasin? Of course you wouldn't!

Will a single pair of socks last a whole week? Of course they won't! We must change our socks every day.

Wearing your hair in the style of a bird's nest isn't good for it. We should comb or brush our hair well and regularly.

How good it is to walk out in clean shoes! Not only are we proud of our shoes, the shoes themselves are happy. Dirty shoes just don't feel right.

Hunger is the best sauce

A few pointers on good table manners

Take that knife out of your mouth – no matter that it has delicious sauce on it.

A knife should never, ever be licked!

You don't have to prove that you enjoyed your meal by licking the plate clean! That just isn't done in polite society.

That dratted cold is such a bother to you! Without a handkerchief to hand, you reach for a table napkin. Is that the right thing to do? Of course it isn't!

To show that you have finished eating, you should place your cutlery in a straight, neat line on the side of your plate. It is also worth thanking the chef for the delicious food.

A backpack or a toy on the table, next to your plate? No way! The things on the table should be related to the meal in progress – plates, cutlery, salt and pepper, drinking glasses, with perhaps just a potted flower for decoration.

Are you so tired that you want to make yourself comfortable on the table? Next to your plate, or even on it? Forget it! Straighten up and take your elbows off the table. You can lie down after your meal. No sleeping at mealtimes!

Hunger is the best sauce

A few pointers on good table manners

Take that knife out of your mouth – no matter that it has delicious sauce on it.

A knife should never, ever be licked!

You don't have to prove that you enjoyed your meal by licking the plate clean! That just isn't done in polite society.

That dratted cold is such a bother to you! Without a handkerchief to hand, you reach for a table napkin. Is that the right thing to do? Of course it isn't!

To show that you have finished eating, you should place your cutlery in a straight, neat line on the side of your plate. It is also worth thanking the chef for the delicious food.

A backpack or a toy on the table, next to your plate? No way! The things on the table should be related to the meal in progress – plates, cutlery, salt and pepper, drinking glasses, with perhaps just a potted flower for decoration.

Are you so tired that you want to make yourself comfortable on the table? Next to your plate, or even on it? Forget it! Straighten up and take your elbows off the table. You can lie down after your meal. No sleeping at mealtimes!

