

occupation

home

communication

tradition

hero

help

art

toy

danger

light

accomplishment

winter

family

tree

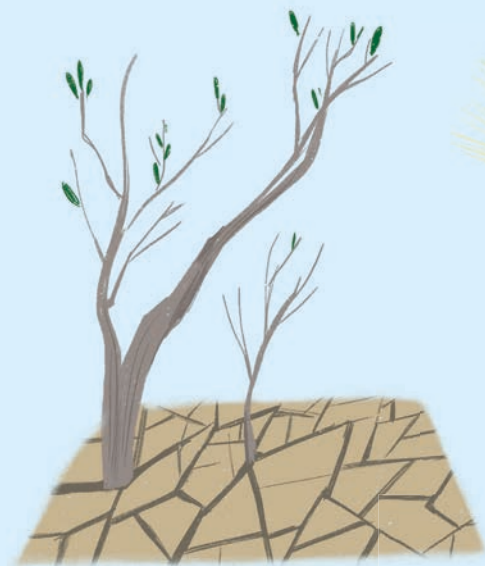

fun

water

Text by Radka Piro
Illustrations by Oksana Drachkovska

What Do You IMAGINE When Someone Says ...

water shortage

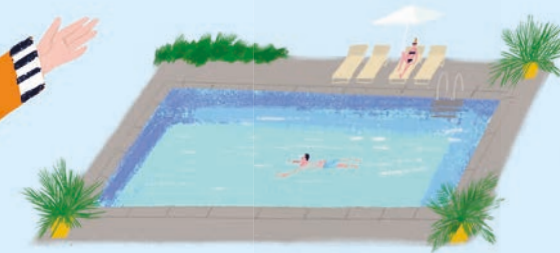

boiling spaghetti water

water fight

splashing in puddles

swimming in a pool

town canals

waterfall

geyser

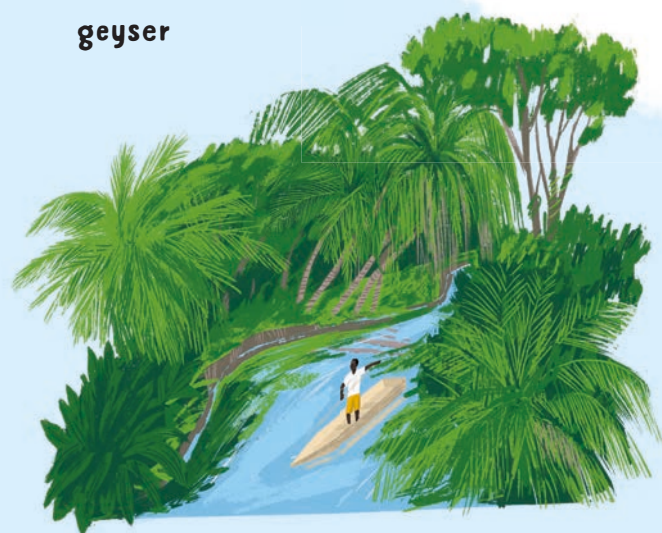

glass of water

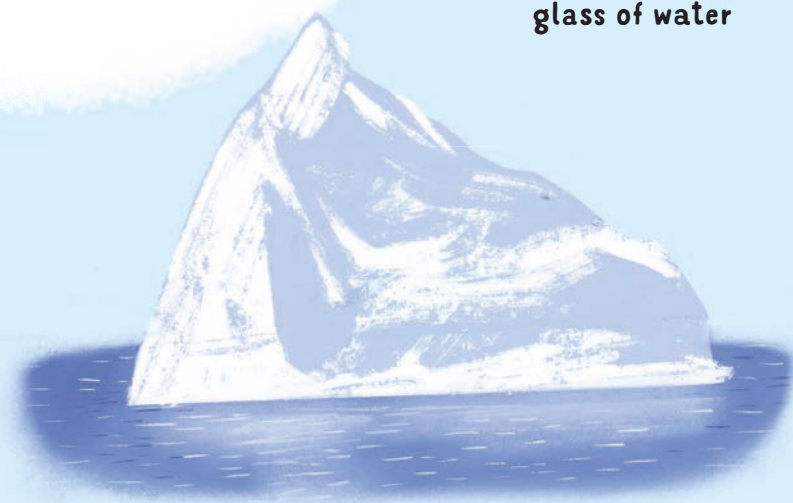

mountain lake

sea

river

ice

drops on glass

What do you think water is?

full tub with boats

What do you imagine when Someone Says... WATER?

dolls

ball

kitchen utensils

building blocks

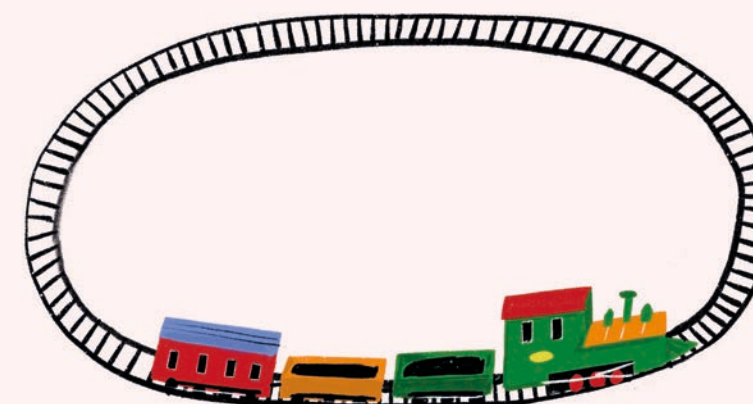

wooden toy car

plush toy

spinning tops

toy trains

scattered toys

What do you
imagine when Someone says...
TOY?

catapult

toy tea service

diabolo

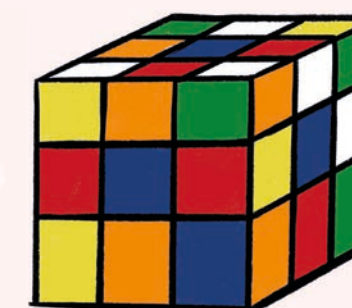

Russian doll

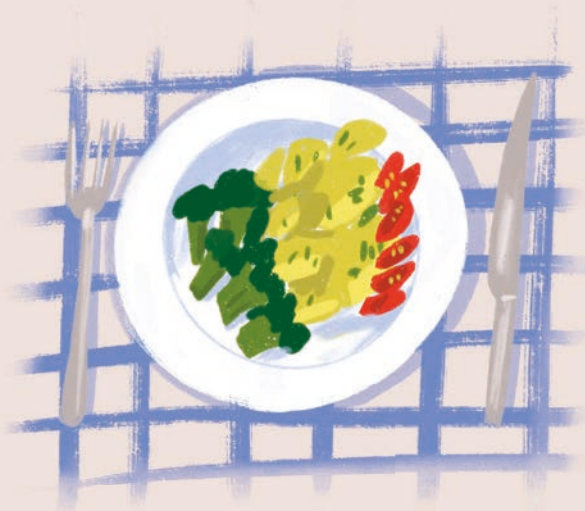

stuff from the nature

What is your favourite toy?

Rubik's cube

small lunch

packed lunch

making lunch

fried grasshoppers

What do you
imagine when Someone Says...
LUNCH?

eaten lunch

doing the dishes after lunch

lunch in the canteen

sushi

submarine sandwich

salad

feast

siesta

pizza

sweet lunch

What do you like to eat for lunch?

seafood

hug

first-aid kit

volunteering

donating blood

helping with cleaning

What do you
imagine when Someone Says...
HELP?

helping
a handicapped person

helping
an old person

calling for help

life ring

standing up for someone

helping a friend

helping a sibling with homework

calling a sick friend

How do you
help others?

help with reading

Text by Radka Píro • Illustrations by Oksana Drachkovska

What Do You IMAGINE When Someone Says ...

Imagine a tree. What does it look like? Is it broad-leaved, or coniferous? What's its colour? Is the tree short, or does it reach all the way up to the sky? Is fruit growing on it?

The tree you think of is yours and nobody else's, and completely different to the one your friend might imagine. And the same goes for other stuff as well. That's because no two things are created alike in two different heads.

Would you like to know what other people think about the world around us? This book will show you what they might imagine when they hear such general words as family, communication, or occupation, or how dramatically different views of the same thing can be.

b4u publishing
www.albatrosmedia.eu

© Designed by B4U Publishing, member of Albatros Media Group, 2020.
All rights reserved.