LITTLE DOGS TO THE MOON

Little Dog often wished that his life was more interesting. He admired the famous dogs he saw on TV. Some of them saved human lives. Others travelled the world. Some ran about in the wilderness. Others chased criminals.

From the moment Little Dog learned about Laika and her expedition, he watched all TV programmes about space keenly. His favourite was called Wide-Open Window to Space. Little Dog listened to the presenter talk about distant stars. He dreamed of being in space... One evening, he saw a programme about moon landings.

As soon as he got there,
he set to work.
He sawed, hammered,
cut, pounded, nailed,
measured and welded.
He worked tirelessly for days and nights. He was so caught up his work, several times he forgot about his walkies! Little Fish lent a helping fin by passing him tools and making sure he took an occasional rest.

After a few days, anyone passing the garden by Little Dog's kennel would have seen a big rocket gleaming in the sun. Little Dog surveyed it proudly – as well he might, after all his hard work. The rocket was filled with levers, knobs and devices. Little Dog could hardly wait to try it out. The next day was lovely and sunny, without a cloud in the sky – ideal weather for a rocket flight!

I don't know.

Have you ever wondered about the lives of your pets? They look pretty boring, don't they? The same thing over and over: walk, meal, sleep. But a certain dog wants more from life than a full belly and three walks a day. To begin with, a trip into space and being the first dogsmonaut on the Moon seems like a good idea – and the very opposite of boring! A bit of hard training and building a rocket out of junk are child's play for him. But the launch into space is just the beginning. The trip gets ever more complicated. Getting home will be a tough nut to crack.

Join Little Dog on his fantastic trip into space and perhaps you'll discover that adventures aren't only for determined little dogs.
