Today, Dad and I are going to the forest.

... but we're not the only ones.

Year on year, there are ever fewer of them in our forest ...

... it will grow into a mighty tree with lots of acorns.

For all of us.

The background of the page is a detailed illustration of a forest in autumn. On the left, a tree trunk with reddish-brown branches and yellow leaves is visible. In the center, a large tree trunk with intricate wood grain patterns is shown. On the right, a vine with large green leaves climbs a tree trunk. The ground is covered in fallen yellow leaves and a small stream flows through the scene. The entire scene is framed by a green border.

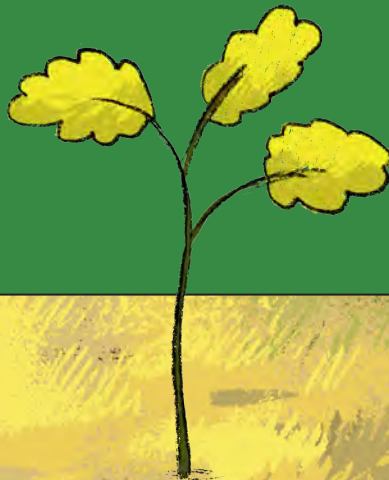

WE'RE OFF TO THE FOREST

Katarína Macurová

Autumn is here. The forest is awash with colour. Leaves flutter to the ground, where they rustle underfoot. It's getting colder.

The animals are preparing for winter. A daddy squirrel and his son go to the forest every day – for stores, and for something else. Shh ... Do you hear that?

A story is coming your way. A story tender and warm, about an ordinary, extraordinary forest, ordinary, extraordinary treasure within it, and how even little things can change the big, wide world.
