An Explanatory Dictionary

the chair falls with its legginess

the window

is the imprint
of a hand

in the frame
of the world

evening: teeth, pajamas, dad yawning a bedtime story horror leads downward. the basement days of reclining, bitter swallows, sickness darkness is full

grandma allows

the doctor smells white

Mom,

a ball,

snow,

home...

What words can capture and describe a child's world? What is important to a little person when they are, say, four years old? Poet and writer Olga Stehlíková has compiled a poetic Explanatory Dictionary, designed for children and their adults. One double-page spread, one entry, one illustration. And behind them, an entire world of emotions, details, and associations. Their combination offers ideas for reflection, shared discovery, conversation, and close encounters between worlds. Michaela Casková's watercolor collages add another dimension to the book and inspire you to create with your children. You can start by cutting out some motifs from the jacket flaps and sticking them inside the book. Every copy will thus become unique thanks to you!
