Helena Haraštová
Nikola Aronová
This or That? GREEN or BLUE?
This or That?
GREEN
or BLUE?
Jonathan learns COLORS
Helena Haraštová
Nikola Aronová
b4u publishing

First, Jonathan wants to find his most comfortable GREEN T-shirt. It will make a great base for the costume. He knows that he brought several GREEN and BLUE T-shirts to Grandma's. Which pile should he reach for?

That's right, this is a GREEN T-shirt. Jonathan puts it on and thinks about what to wear with it.

First, Jonathan wants to find his most comfortable GREEN T-shirt. It will make a great base for the costume. He knows that he brought several GREEN and BLUE T-shirts to Grandma's. Which pile should he reach for?

This is a BLUE T-shirt. Jonathan wants to wear a GREEN one.

He will definitely need a good cloak. Grandma and Grandpa have some old curtains in the attic. Great! But there is more than one set. The curtains are RED and PINK. Jonathan would like a RED cloak. Which should he reach for?

This is a PINK curtain. It isn't what Jonathan needs.
He will definitely need a good cloak. Grandma and Grandpa have some old curtains in the attic. Great! But there is more than one set. The curtains are RED and PINK. Jonathan would like a RED cloak. Which should he reach for?
That's right, this is a RED curtain. Jonathan will take it.

What a beautiful costume! All that is missing now are shoes. Where are Grandpa's BROWN boots?

Jonathan runs to show it to Grandma and Grandpa, who can't take their eyes off their grandson. 'That's the most imaginative costume I've ever seen!' Grandma praises Jonathan. 'Who are you supposed to be?' 'He's obviously the King of the Forest, Grandma!' Grandpa replies quickly. 'That's right!' says Jonathan. He is happy for another reason, too – he has learned to recognize colours!

GREEN or BLUE?

Jonathan is getting ready for a carnival, and this time he's going to make his own costume! He finds everything he needs at Grandma and Grandpa's, but sometimes he gets his colours mixed up. Which shirt is blue, and which is green? Can you help him choose the right garments?

This interactive book with pull tabs teaches children to recognize colours through play, as well as training their attention. Sometimes choosing the right colours really matters!

ISBN + EAN

b4u publishing

www.albatrosmedia.eu © Designed by B4U Publishing,
member of Albatros Media Group, 2025.
Author: Helena Haraštová, Illustrations © Nikola Aronová
Translator: Andrew Oakland. All rights reserved.

FSC logo